Andrew is a seasoned attorney with a proven track record of providing practical, strategic advice and counsel to stakeholders on a variety of corporate law and transactional matters. As the former lead in-house counsel for two venture-backed consumer product companies and a senior associate at one of the world's leading venture capital law firms, he brings a unique blend of legal acumen, business savvy, operating insights and a results-driven approach to PilieroMazza clients operating in the government contract and commercial business sectors.

Andrew's contributions extend beyond an advisory role, offering counsel on corporate governance, equity incentive plans, executive compensation, employment matters, and executing complex transactions, including mergers and acquisitions, multiple rounds of equity and debt financings, tender offers and secondary liquidity transactions. He also plays a pivotal role in negotiating and drafting commercial agreements related to supply chain, finance, technology and other strategic operational matters.
